PERSONAL INFORMATION

I am very much what you read here. I am pursuing Anthropology (H) from Hansraj College, Delhi University. I love to talk to people, listen and learn. Language, communication and expressions have always been my forte. I have always taken absolute pleasure working in the PR department of my college clubs. Outside academics I have plethora of time to devote to books and theatrics. I also love languages and teach German in my free time.

ACADEMIC PROJECTS

- Project 1: Conducted a survey and presented a research project on “depression, anxiety and stress among teenagers during the lockdown” under the professors of the Department of Anthropology, University of Delhi. The survey included around 200 students from around the county primarily from the states of Jammu, Nagaland, Delhi, and Orissa.

As a surveyor, my role was to conduct interviews and educate the respondents on how the undertake the survey form we created and then match the individually calculated values of stress, anxiety, and depression levels with that of the universal standards set by health organizations.

- Project 2: Research and tackle the question statement “impact of climate change on the world in general and India in particular.”

My role was to closely study the problem statement, research, collect primary and secondary data and review pre-existing literature to help understand the impact better.
